G.O. 38.—Military Districts.

Her Majesty has been pleased to approve of the troops at Chatham, Sheerness, and Gravesend (including Tilbury Fort), forming, from the 1st April last, a distinct command, under the orders of the general officer stationed at Chatham, who will henceforth report direct to head quarters.

G.O. 39.—Officers' Messes.

I. His Royal Highness the Field Marshal Commanding-in-Chief has reason to know that, in many instances, the expenses of regimental messes have increased to such an extent, as to press heavily and injuriously upon junior officers, and those whose means are limited.

II. The orders on this subject, as already laid down in paras. 301 and 302 of the "Queen's Regulations and Orders for the Army," and the confidential letter and memorandum of the 15th May and 27th July, 1857, are so clear and explicit, that any commanding officer who allows the mess of his regiment to become the source of undue and extravagant expense, fails in one of the most important functions of his position. He should not only discourage, but firmly repress, any tendency upon the part of those under his command to indulge in extravagant and unnecessary habits of luxury, incompatible with the military profession. This he should do by personal example, and by insisting upon the mess being conducted, in every particular, with strict economy and a due regard to the means of the poorest member of it.

III. The Field Marshal Commanding-in-Chief is not disposed to dictate to the officers of the army with regard to the nature and number of their entertainments; but commanding officers will be required to exercise a wise discretion in checking and controlling all unnecessary and extreme expenditure on such occasions.

IV. The Duke of Cambridge will not absolve commanding officers from any part of their responsibility in a matter in which the interests and prospects of the younger officers are so deeply concerned; and his Royal Highness will seriously consider the propriety of continuing an officer in command of a regiment who fails to carry out, in their true spirit and intention, the orders of her Majesty on this subject.

V. General officers in command will, at their annual inspections, report fully upon the ordinary, as well as the special expenses of messes caused by entertainments, and upon the general conduct of regiments in these particulars.

G.O. 40.—Marches—Officers' Messes.

I. Par. 1099 of the "Queen's Regulations and Orders for the Army" is cancelled.

II. When a regiment receives orders to move from one station to another, a sufficient quantity of mess property is to be carried with the regiment to enable the officers to subsist themselves until the day of departure from the old, and on the day after arrival at the new quarters.

G.O. 41.—Inspections of Auxiliary Forces.

Referring to clause 162, Army Circulars of 1870, it is to be distinctly understood that, if an officer accompanies the colonel commanding the Royal Artillery in a district, or an officer of corresponding rank, at the inspection of a corps of Militia or Volunteers, he will be required to proceed at his own expense.

G.O. 42.—Candidates for Adjutancies of Auxiliary Forces.

Commanding officers, in forwarding the application from an officer under their command for an adjutantcy in the auxiliary forces, will send with it a report upon W. O. Form 1627.

G.O. 43.—Army Reserve.

I. Soldiers who have been transferred to the Army Reserve to complete the period for which they are attested, may be permitted to rejoin their former regiments, counting their previous service both in the Regular Army and in the Reserve. They will be placed under stoppages to refund the current quarter's Reserve pay from date of rejoining, and to provide themselves with new kits; but should they become non-effective before the cost thereof is recovered, captains of companies will be relieved from further liability on account of debts so accruing.

II. Applications from Army Reserve men to return to the colours will be addressed, by staff officers of pensioners, to commanding officers of regiments and depôts, by whom they will be forwarded to the Adjutant General, for the concurrence of the Commander-in-Chief; and when authority for their re-transfer is received, their discharge documents and line attestations, with their services duly verified to the date of their quitting the reserve, are at once to be remitted to their regiments or depôts.

G.O. 44.—Courts Martial.

The confidential letter to general officers dated Horse Guards, 8th August, 1870,—No. 110—Genl. No. 1,—is hereby cancelled, and confirming officers will henceforth use their discretion in confirming or remitting sentences of discharge from the service, according to the character and previous history of the prisoner: it being desirable to rid the army of all incorrigibly bad soldiers.

G.O. 45.—Discharges.

The medical history sheets of all invalids are, in future, invariably to accompany their discharge documents, for the consideration of the Commissioners of Chelsea Hospital.

G.O. 46.—Furloughs.

Furloughs are not to be granted to non-commissioned officers to enable them to take up appointments in the Reserve or Auxiliary Forces until authority has been obtained through the Adjutant General; and it is to be understood that only under very exceptional circumstances will such furloughs be extended beyond two months.

G.O. 47.—Restoration of Forfeited Service.

Paragraphs 782 and 783 of the "Queen's Regulations and Orders for the Army," will be amended as follows:—

782. A soldier who has forfeited his claim to reckon service towards good conduct pay and pension, will be eligible to be recommended for the restoration of such service when he establishes his claim thereto by an undeviating course of good conduct for five years in case of a first conviction entailing loss of service, for seven years in case of a second conviction of the same nature, or for ten years should any circumstance of an aggravated character have attended the commission of the offence on account of which he had incurred the penalties in question. Fraudulent enlistment while belonging to the militia will be considered as a conviction, for this purpose only, although the man may not have been tried for the offence. A soldier may, however, be recommended for such restoration within half the periods here prescribed, provided he has shown not only unremitting good conduct, but has also given good, faithful or gallant service of a constant and sustained character in the field, or has performed some specific act of valor in the field, reflecting honour on the regiment and on himself.

783. The period of probation will, except in the case of fraudulent enlistment from the militia, be reckoned from the release of the soldier from imprisonment, and his return to duty. In cases of fraudulent enlistment from the militia, the period of probation will reckon from the date of attestation for the line. Commanding officers will forward, on the 1st January and 1st July of each year, returns on W. O Form 435 or 495, as the case may be, of all men under their command who, during the half-year previous to those dates, have become eligible for restoration of forfeited service, noting opposite each man's name the exact date of his so becoming eligible. These returns are to be addressed to the Adjutant General, and to be accompanied in each case by a certified copy of the record of the soldier's service.

G.O. 48.—Musketry.

I. The inspector general of musketry having in his quarterly reports called attention to the numerous irregularities which have taken place in keeping the target and judging distance practice registers, the Field Marshal Commanding in Chief reminds commanding officers that they are held responsible that the musketry regulations are rigidly adhered to in every detail, and that he looks to them to prevent, by every means in their power, any infraction of the established rules for conducting the rifle instruction of the troops.

II. His Royal Highness observes that alterations in the points recorded in the target practice registers have still been permitted to be made (after the total points have been carried out), with a view to pass men into a higher class or give them a claim to prizes, —and that answers given in judging distance practice have been altered by the non-commissioned officers keeping the registers so as to raise themselves, or some of the men of the squad, into a higher class than their first recorded answers would have justified. Such irregularities should on no account be permitted or connived at by the company officers superintending the practices, as they are calculated to destroy that faith in the truth of these records which is essential to justify the grant of money prizes by the public.

III. The Musketry Regulations require that the registers should at all times, when it is possible, be kept by the company officers themselves, who are always to exercise the utmost vigilance to prevent irregular entries; and, whenever they have any reason to suspect that such have been made, they are bound at once to report the circumstance to their commanding officers, in order that proper steps may be taken to punish the delinquent, and maintain unimpeached the accuracy and integrity of the records of practice.

IV. His Royal Highness avails himself of this opportunity of pointing out that in some cases the per-centage of nonexercised men at the termination of the last annual course of musketry instruction was again excessive; and he hopes that, by adverting to the remarks which have already been made on this subject in G. O. 13 of 1869, and 33 of 1871, commanding officers will see the necessity of giving their own personal attention to the matter, in order that no man may be withheld from rifle instruction on grounds not recognized by the Musketry Regulations.

G.O. 49.—Musketry.

With reference to clause 21, Army Circulars of 1872, part of the ten additional rounds of ammunition allowed for recruits may be expended as follows, viz. :—

I. If a recruit when firing in the first period should, in the opinion of the officer instructor, make such bad practice as to show that he has not been sufficiently prepared for it by the preliminary drills, his further practice may be suspended at any time before he has completed his first ten rounds—and, with the approval of the commanding officer, he may be put through a further course of aiming and position drills, and blank firing.

II. The performances up to the stage at which his firing was suspended are to be can-called, and scored out in the register, and the cause briefly stated thereof in the column "Total Points."

III. Recruits so put back for further drill may continue their judging distance practice with the squad they originally commenced with.

G.O. 50.—Pioneers.

The whole of the pioneers being now borne on the strength of the service companies under G.O. 69 of 1871, the two sets of equipment with the depôts of regiments should be sent out with the next draft to the service companies and struck off the charge of the depôt.

G.O. 51.—Officers' Dress.

The following uniform has been approved of for sub assistant commissaries:—

Tunic, mess jacket, trousers,—the same as assistant commissaries, but without lace or braid, except the cords on the tunic.

No badges on the collar of the tunic.

Patrol jacket to be edged with black mohair braid, same as sub lieutenants.

Sword,—undress sword belt and sword knot, same as assistant commissaries.

Forage cap,—same as the other officers of the department.

Cocked hats,—same as assistant commissaries.

The dress trousers and belts are not to be worn by sub assistant commissaries.

By Authority.

THE ARMY AND ITS ADVANTAGES.

Terms on which Young Men are invited to join Her Majesty's Forces

INFANTRY.

A soldier who enlists in the Infantry engages to serve for 12 years, the first 6 years in the Army and the last 6 years in the Reserve.

The pay of an Infantry soldier while serving in the Army is 1*s.* 2*d.* a-day, with an additional 1*d.* "beer money."

Lodging, bedding, fuel and light are supplied free.

Good food is provided at less than cost price; at home, a daily ration, consisting of 1lb. of bread and ½-lb. of meat, is supplied to soldiers for 4½*d.*, which is stopped from their pay; in the colonies, 1lb. of bread and 1lb. of meat is supplied for 3½*d.*

The soldier on first joining is clothed, and provided with brushes, razors, and all other necessaries, free of charge.

He is afterwards supplied annually with the principal articles of clothing; but is required to provide himself with some of the smaller articles, such as shirts and socks, and to keep up his supply of brushes, &c., at his own cost; these are furnished at a low price by Government; and the total expense to which he is put on this account does not, on an average, amount to a penny a-day.

In case of sickness, medical treatment in hospital, with proper food, &c., is provided for a stoppage of 10*d.* a-day from the soldier's pay.

By good conduct a soldier may obtain an increase to his pay of 1*d.* a-day after 2 years' service; and if he can read and write, and is deserving, he has every prospect of promotion to be non-commissioned officer, with a further increase of pay.

When a soldier is transferred to the Reserve for the last 6 years of his engagement, he receives 4*d.* a-day, in return for which he is liable to be drilled occasionally; the times of training and exercise will, however, be so arranged as to interfere as little as possible with his trade or occupation: he is also liable, in case of imminent national danger or of great emergency, to be recalled to service in the Army.

A soldier has no right to remain in the Army for more than 6 years, but the privilege of remaining in it for the whole 12 years will be allowed to such men as may be specially recommended by their commanding officers.

A soldier permitted to remain in the Army for the whole 12 years, if he has conducted himself well and is fit, may be allowed to re-engage, to complete 21 years' service; after which he will, on discharge, become entitled to a pension for life, varying from 8*d.* to 2*s.* 6*d.* a-day, according to his rank and service.

After completing 21 years' service he may apply to be allowed to remain for a further period in the Army. If his application be granted he will continue to serve as a soldier; and will be allowed to claim his discharge at any time, at the expiration of 3 months from the date of his giving notice to his commanding officer of his wish to leave the service.

During his extended service he may earn increased good conduct pay at the rate of—

2*d.* a-day after 6 years' service.
3*d.* " " 12 " "
4*d.* " " 18 " "
5*d.* " " 23 " "
6*d.* " " 28 " "

If recalled to service in the Army from the Reserve, a soldier will receive full daily pay, and the time he has served in the Reserve will reckon towards good-conduct pay, as if he had served continuously in the Army; and, if at the end of his limited engagement he re-engages, the time he has served in the Reserve will count year for year towards pension on discharge.

CAVALRY, ROYAL ARTILLERY AND ROYAL ENGINEERS.

A soldier who enlists in the Cavalry, Royal Artillery and Royal Engineers, engages to serve for 12 years in the Army; at the end of which period, if he has conducted himself well and is fit, he may be allowed to re-engage to complete 21 years' service, after which he will, on discharge, receive a pension for life, varying from 8*d.* to 2*s.* 6*d* a-day, according to his rank and service.

The daily pay of a soldier in the Cavalry is 1*s.* 5*d.*, in the Royal Artillery 1*s.* 5¾*d.*, and in the Royal Engineers 1*s.* 4½*d.*, with an additional 1*d.* "beer money" in each case.

A soldier in the Royal Engineers receives, in addition to his ordinary pay, extra "working pay," generally varying from 1*s.* to 2*s.* a-day, according to the nature of the work on which he is employed, and his qualifications; trained artificers and good workmen are, however, alone accepted as recruits for the Royal Engineers.

Soldiers in the Cavalry, Royal Artillery and Royal Engineers receive the same advantages as regards lodging, food, clothing, medical treatment, good conduct pay and extension of service as have been described as given to soldiers in the Infantry.

ALL ARMS.

In addition to the advantages already explained, canteens are established in which a soldier can buy beer, tobacco and other articles at cheaper rates than elsewhere. He has the benefit of a regimental school, in which he may get a sound and useful education; the use of a library, and recreation room; and, in most places, other means of amusement. In many places he has time and opportunities given him to learn a trade, by which he may earn money whilst in the Army, and be the better prepared for gaining his livelihood when he leaves the service.

If wounded in action, or in any way maimed in the performance of his military duties, he becomes entitled to a pension.

A deserving soldier, on his discharge, is well fitted, from his regular habits, for many situations—such as those in the police, on the railroads, or other employments in civil life—and a good character on discharge from the service gives him the best testimonial for such employment.

As an additional inducement to good men to join Her Majesty's service, advantages are given to soldiers who on leaving the Army may wish for employment in the Civil Service, and to soldiers in the Reserve who wish for employment as country post-office messengers.

There are few callings in civil life open to unskilled labour which promise to a steady and deserving young man such advantages as are offered to a soldier in HER MAJESTY'S SERVICE.

2. (Article 20.) Charges for carriage hire (other than ordinary cab hire), or for any unusual expenditure, will be supported by a statement of the circumstances which rendered such expenditure necessary, and by receipted vouchers. In cases where it may be impracticable to obtain receipted vouchers, the cause of their absence must be explained on the travelling claim.

3. (Article 29.) Personal allowance is not issuable under this Article unless officers proceed beyond a radius of ten miles from their stations.

4. (Article 32.) Personal allowance to officers while detained will not be reduced to half rates under this Article unless the detention of at any one place extends beyond three clear consecutive days, exclusive of the days of proceeding to and departing from such place.

5. (Articles 41, 42.) Officers quitting and returning to their stations on the same day are entitled, when proceeding with troops, to personal allowance at 5*s.* under these Articles, provided the journey extends beyond a radius of 10 miles from their stations. On change of station, officers shall be entitled to the allowance specified in Article 41, irrespective of the distance travelled.

6. (Paragraph 2 of the Explanatory Directions appended to the Royal Warrant.) Officers of the Royal Engineers at home, excepting when they proceed with troops under route, will be paid their travelling expenses by the control paymasters of their respective districts. When they proceed under route their travelling expenses will be charged as heretofore in the regimental pay lists.

7. The travelling claims of regimental officers at home, whose regiments are abroad, will be paid by the control paymaster, London, unless the officers be attached to a regiment or depôt at home, when their claims will be paid by the paymaster of the regiment or depôt to which they are attached.

Cl. 89.—Meritorious Service Annuities.

1. All officers and accountants by whom annuities for meritorious service are paid will in future forward to the Secretary of State for War special reports of the death of non-commissioned officers in receipt of such annuities; the exact date of death being stated. In the case of the non-commissioned officer dying while serving with his corps, the commanding officer will be held responsible that this report is forwarded.

2. If an annuitant omits to draw his annuity for a period exceeding six months, the officer by whom he is paid will make inquiry as to the cause of it not being drawn, and will report the result to the Secretary of State.

3. When a non-commissioned officer serving with his corps, and in receipt of an annuity, is discharged, a certificate showing the date to which the annuity has been paid at his corps should be forwarded to the Secretary of State.

Cl. 90.—Prizes for Good Shooting.

The medal to be given to the best shot of the Infantry of the Army, in accordance with paragraph 4, of clause 62, Army Circulars, 1869, will be of silver instead of bronze.

Cl. 91.—Enlisting Money.

It will no longer be necessary to give the usual enlisting shilling in cases of re-enlistment or re-engagement, and it is hereby notified that any charge for such sum on account of re-enlisted or re-engaged men will not be allowed as a charge against the public.

CONTROL SERVICES.

Cl. 92.—Commuted Allowance for Light at Home Stations.

At home stations, when, in accordance with § 41, clause 120, Army Circulars, 1870, commuted allowance at one shilling a room weekly for light only is drawn, it must be limited to the number of rooms for which the commuted allowance for fuel and light is allowed by clause 87, Army Circulars, 1871, according to the season of the year, viz., Summer—from 1st May, to 31st October; Winter—1st November to 30th April.

Cl. 93.—Forged Telegraphic Messages.

Attempts having been recently made to obtain money from various control paymasters by means of forged telegraphic messages directing the payment of fictitious claims by uncrossed cheques, control officers and others will in future, before paying money on telegraphic instructions, repeat the message to the officer from whom it is supposed to emanate, and defer payment until the confirmation of the message has been received.

Cl. 94.—Cooking.

The use of tin meat dishes in cook houses for stewing purposes will be discontinued for the future.

Cl. 95.—Shrapnel Shells.

Shrapnel Shells for rifled guns are not to be placed upon their bases when stored in the open air, as it is found that water enters the shells through the fuze-hole.

Cl. 96.—Materials for Repair of Equipment.

Materials for repairs of equipment are supplied solely for carrying out repairs to equipment. They will not, except under special circumstances, be used for the manufacture of new articles.

Cl. 97.—Drill Clothing.

Requisitions on the Army Clothing Department for American drill clothing should be accompanied by size rolls on W. O. Form 553 for trousers, and 554 for frocks, as the garments are prepared in accordance with the scale of sizes therein given.

Cl. 98.—Carriage of Clothing, Necessaries, and Empty Packing Cases and Casks.

1. It is notified with reference to clauses 31 of Army Circulars, 1868, and 126 of Army Circulars, 1870, that Messrs. Fishbourne and Co., Bachelor's Walk, Dublin, are the contract carriers for Great Britain, and Messrs. Chaplin and Horne, Golden Cross, Charing Cross, London, for Ireland.

2. The London address of Messrs. Fishbourne is, 10, Holden Terrace, Victoria Station, S.W.

Cl. 99.—Directions for Trimming and using Paraffin Oil Lamps.

1. Fix one end of a piece of wick 10 inches in length into the flat metal tube for holding it, and cut it off perfectly smooth and level with the top of the wick holder; trim off also the sharp corners of the wick by means of a sharp pair of lamp scissors.

2. Put the wick into the reservoir for holding the oil, and pour in oil until the reservoir is three parts full, then fix the wick holder in its position and place over it the brass cap, which must be firmly secured in its place.

3. The lamp should contain more oil than it is required actually to consume, so that the wick may be at all times saturated with oil, for should the wick burn dry it is liable to break the reservoir.

4. The lamp should always be extinguished before pouring in the oil when it is necessary to replenish it after the lamp has been lighted.

5. After the wick has been trimmed turn it up level with the top of the cap and light it, and when well lighted turn the wick down until it ceases to smoke. Fix the glass cylinder in its position, and turn the wick slowly up again so long as no smoke is produced, taking care that the light is kept low until the glass gets heated, and the moisture on it is dried up.

6. The wick will require trimming every time the lamp is used.

7. The wick should be kept in a very dry place, as a damp wick, besides spoiling the light, endangers the glass.

8. Paraffin oil lamps must not be carried about when lighted.

Cl. 100.—Camp Kettles.

1. "Torrens" or "light camp kettles" will, until further orders, be supplied to Cavalry, Infantry and auxiliary forces in standing camps, in lieu of "Flanders" kettles as laid down at pages 166 and 174 of the Equipment Regulations.

2. All camp kettles must be well cleaned before being given into store, or the expense of cleaning will be a charge against the troops.

Cl. 101.—Magazines.

General instructions for the guidance of officers and master gunners of the Royal Artillery in charge of magazines are issued herewith to all whom they may concern.
